

With my final entry of the year, I've just watched arguably the best Visual FX movie of ALL TIME in Avatar. This movie Visually is what Transformers WANTED to be. This movie was a visual eye candy love fest. If RLAM is anywhere near 1/2 as good visually it will be a successful movie bcuz the story will make up for any visual short comings.

WETA w/ help from ILM did the SFX for this movie and if I have said it once, I will say it again...ILM BETTER DO THE SFX FOR RLAM!!!! Did I just say that? Inner voice Inner voice.

Was it just me or did you imagine Zoe Saldana as Claudia while watching that movie or remembering Star Trek?? HmMMMMMMMMMMMM

Anyways as this year comes to a close I am sad and yet hopeful for the future, bcuz even though this year didnt turn out the way I had hoped it would, I do have a brighter future than I did when I started it. Grad School can be very therapeutic!

Next year (theoretically) will be the start of pre-production for RLAM and if so then I sooo wanna do the behind the scenes stuff!!

'It's a dream, that I have'

Merry Christmas, Happy Channuka, Happy Kwanzaa, and Merry New Year!
